

Architect's & Designer's Newsletter

The Revolutionary workspace begins with P2!

As architects, designers and manufacturers, we look at library furniture, not as standalone objects, but as part of a total interactive design. Our process creates furniture to fit specific spaces and the unique character of each institution. The design compliments the primary elements of a space and integrates the furniture seamlessly to create an environment of quality and inevitability. The strong design character, proportions and motifs of the changing interactive environments are the genesis of our design.

Palmieri recently issued the pricelist and specs book under the same cover. This contains information on the standard finishes, shapes, computer workstations, desks, mobile storage, tables, configurations, electrical & accessories and seating options.

The website: www.P2WorkspaceSolutions.com is under construction.

Most Wanted - LINX DESKS

This month's "most wanted" is the LINX INFORMATION DESKS that show flexibility and durability. Linx is designed to ensure continuous functionality, and works as a complete system where components can be configured to meet a multitude of functional needs. For these desks we "take-on" design elements of other Palmieri furniture collections.

Denver welcomed the ALA exhibitors with a nice warm spring weather perfect for walking to the Denver Convention Centre. Palmieri's presentation booth had a tasteful and colorful background, and the pieces shown were - quote "outrageous designs" and opened "I want more" topics. The personnel has dedicated each day taking care of the professionals visiting and scored important leads that could take Palmieri around the world.

The P2 teasing campaign mission was accomplished and we are back on the production site to manufacture the best furniture for the most pretentious architects, designers and their clients.
